Vehicles within Atlas Logistics

Every vehicle that Atlas Logistics has to offer can be found in the standard vehicle spawner (“/vs” in the AxielPD in-game chat). Once the “/vs” command has been done, navigate to Companies > Atlas Logistics. From there you can spawn whatever Atlas Logistics company vehicle you need.

Radio Channels

Whilst on duty as Atlas Logistics, all employees must utilise the TeamSpeak radio channel as well as follow our strict format. The TeamSpeak channel can be located under the “Miscellaneous Frequencies” category in the main AxielPD TeamSpeak server.

Once you have connected to the channel, all employees must change their name to the following:

[AT (last 3 digits of collar number)] First initial. Last Name.

Example:

[AT132] H. Watkinson

Command Structure

Atlas Logistics has a specific command structure enforced at all times to ensure support can be offered to employees as well as allowing the company to advance. The command structure used within the company can be found below and should also be followed at all times:

Manager
Team Leader
Employee

All issues within Atlas Logistics should first be forwarded to a Team Leader. From there the Team Leader may hand the information on to a Manager if deemed necessary. Issues can be forwarded straight on to a Manager if need be however should be avoided where possible.

Attending Calls & Scene Etiquette

Atlas logistics employee's should remain professional and courteous when out on the road and working in the yard. Employees should keep to a high standard of Customer Service when speaking to clients and partners. Failure to follow these standards may lead to disciplinary action and employee's are bound to following standard civilian rules in server.

Employee's will attend a variety of calls as pertained to the services we provide. Keeping this in mind employee's should be aware of their working environment at all times, making sure the correct PPE (Personal Protective Equipment) is worn and the correct tools are used.

When attending calls you should first ensure your vehicle is situated in a safe position and that the Amber Lights are activated. Liaise with the customer and ensure all parties are safe.

If employee's attend a recovery job which may require a vehicle to be loaded onto a truck bed, employee's should be mindful to ensure the vehicle is strapped down correctly and secure on the bed of the truck before moving off.
